Program Committee/Comité du programme:

Darrel Manitowabi (Chair), John Gjevre, Sandra Harrison, Geoffrey Hudson, Jill Konkin, Erin Spinney, Karissa Patton, Leslie Digdon

Conference Support/ Aide à la conférence: Lucy Vorobej & Fiona Kenney
'Hub' Hosts/Hôtesse: Annmarie Adams (Montréal) Erika Dyck (Saskatoon)

As a reminder, presenters are asked to limit talks to 10 minutes, to leave sufficient time for Q&A.

Pour rappel, les présentateur rices sont priées de limiter leurs interventions à 10 minutes afin de laisser assez de temps pour la période de questions.

AMS focuses on healthcare's past and its future. Their work fosters a Canadian healthcare system that advances technologically, while remaining rooted in compassion and a rich understanding of our medical history. They convene networks and fund crucial activities in healthcare research, education, leadership and clinical practice. By combining work on the past and the future of healthcare, they ensure that people are always at the centre of Canadian care.

Georgina Feldberg Memorial Student Award

Dr. Feldberg was a dedicated teacher and scholar of social history of medicine, public health, and the gendered politics of disease, who firmly believed that history has an important role to play in shaping public policy. The history of health and medicine community lost an important voice when Dr. Feldberg died far too young in 2010.

The Feldberg Memorial Award is granted annually to the best unpublished essay based on original research on any topic within the history of health and medicine. Essays are not restricted by geography or time period. Students in related disciplines are eligible to apply, but all essays must include a clear historical argument and engage with the relevant historiography.

The winner will receive $500 and a year's membership with the CSHM-SCHM, which includes a subscription to the CBMH/BCHM. Finalists may be encouraged to have their submissions considered for publication in the CBMH/BCHM, subject to our peer review process.

Le prix Georgina Feldberg

Enseignante dévouée, Gina Feldberg a axé ses recherches sur l'histoire sociale de la médecine, de la santé publique et du genre. Elle croyait fermement que la connaissance de l'histoire doit jouer un rôle dans l'élaboration des politiques publiques. Les historien.ne.s de la santé et de la médecine ont perdu une voix importante lorsque G. Feldberg s'est éteinte, bien trop jeune, en 2010.

Le prix est remis chaque année à la meilleure dissertation (non publiée) faisant état d'une recherche originale en histoire de la santé et de la médecine, quel que soit l'espace-temps traité. Les étudiant.e.s de disciplines connexes à l'histoire sont éligibles, du moment que leur dissertation contienne une démonstration historique évidente et s'inscrive dans l'historiographie.

La gagnante ou le gagnant recevra 500 dollars, un an d'adhésion à la CSHM-SCHM et une année d'abonnement au Canadian Bulletin of Medical History / Bulletin canadien d'histoire de la médecine (CBMH/BCHM). Les finalistes seront éventuellement incité.e.s à publier leur texte dans le CBMH/BCHM, après évaluation anonyme par les pairs.

Segall Prize

Harold Nathan Segall (1897-1990) was a distinguished cardiologist and one of the founders of the Canadian Heart Association. He took a strong interest in medical history and was the author of Pioneers of Cardiology in Canada, 1820-1970: The Genesis of Canadian Cardiology. The Segall award was established in his honour, not long after his death, to promote the work of students at the Canadian Society for the History of Medicine.

Le prix Segall

Harold Nathan Segall (1897-1990) était un éminent cardiologue et l'un des fondateurs de la Société canadienne de cardiologie. Il se passionnait pour l'histoire de la médecine et a écrit Pioneers of Cardiology in Canada, 1820-1970 : The Genesis of Canadian Cardiology. Le prix Segall a été créé en son honneur, peu de temps après sa mort, pour promouvoir le travail d'étudiant.e.s de la Société canadienne d'histoire de la médecine.
